HE IS PIUS X

Cardinal, whose term of office would in all likelihood be a short one, so that there might be another chance for Rampolla in the not distant future. After a number of fruitless ballots were taken Sarto has finally been chosen, and his extreme age makes it probable that there will be another vacancy before Rampolla dies, and the latter may be a candidate again.

Cardinal Sarto was long ago named by the late Pope Leo as the man whom Leo desired to succeed him in the papal throne. Of late, however, Sarto has not been much considered. He was not a prominent candidate at the opening of the conclave and as he has not been considered a probable choice little is known in the world at large of his policies and views, and his first acts as head of the church will be watched with the keenest interest. The choice is a compromise between the Rampolla faction and the anti-Rampolla faction.

Sarto is what is known as a Cardinal priest. His title of Patriarch is one of the highest attained by the Cardinals, very few titles of Patriarch being held in the Catholic church, Venice being one of these places. The new Pope was not created a Cardinal until June 12, 1893. He is a native of Italy.

The title "Patriarch" is not one of frequent usage in the western church, though common enough in the eastern church and in the schismatic churches of the east and of Africa. With the use of this title in the eastern church the term "Metropolitan" began to be used with a like meaning in the western church. Nevertheless the title survived in the western church, though with a significance of primacy that the term did not have in the eastern church. Technically the western, or Roman Catholic church recognizes only five patriarchs, those of Constantinople, Alexandria, Jerusalem, Antioch and Rome. But as an honorary title the title is bestowed on a few other Sees, as those of Venice and Lisbon.

Many Republicans Are In Revolt

The sentiment against the wide open primary proposition of the Republican Central committee appears to be growing, and today the statement was made about town that many would leave the party if the organization was going to be captured by Home Rulers. "The watchword of the party should be 'Republican primaries for Republicans only,'" said J. A. McCandless, voicing a sentiment which is quite general.

One plan proposed to meet the difficulty is to have the central committee rescind its action of last Saturday night, and have district committees of the fourth and fifth districts meet in convention and adopt primary rules, a citizens' ticket.

It is believed that the rules adopted would be such as to protect the party from the Home Rule fake votes. Unless some such action is taken it is declared by many Republicans that they will leave the party and support a citizen's ticket.
